

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image processing section provided in a digital camera converts the image photographed in a document photographing mode to any data format that a destination (a facsimile or a 5 personal computer) selected by a user requires.